

Merrick Talent Scholarship established within the Adam Smith Business School

University of Glasgow

4th December 2014

A sponsorship programme has been established between the Adam Smith Business School at the University of Glasgow (www.gla.ac.uk/schools/business) and Merrick Real Estate.

The sponsorship is to be called the Merrick Talent Scholarship and will provide financial support for one outstanding student over a 4 year period. The University's Talent Scholarships are designed to attract and provide financial support to students of ability and potential from a broad socio-economic base throughout the UK.

Mark Norris, Managing Director of Merrick said

" We are delighted to be able to support the University and student in this way. As an MBA graduate of the Adam Smith Business School I have personal experience of the University's excellent higher educational credentials and programme, and its' a privilege to be able to give something back".

Kate Richardson, Scholarships Development at the University of Glasgow said

" At Glasgow we are determined that all students who are dedicated to academic excellence have the opportunity to achieve their dream of coming to university, and the Merrick Talent Scholarship will contribute to making this possible. We very much appreciate Merrick's support and look forward to reporting on the student's progress over the next 4 years".
